2. Objectives:

For an effective and regular teaching-learning process, the College has triple-tiered supervision system and mentoring of each student.

3. Context (in about 150 words)?:

Don Bosco College is guided by the education principles of St. John Bosco who advocated continual adult supervision through the teachers and the Principal/ Vice Principal among the young people under their care. Following in the footsteps of its Father and Founder, Don Bosco, the College Management believes that it is far better to supervise the students by being with them in person than to correct them after they have committed a mistake. This has prompted the College to offer continual and effective supervision to students under the triple-tiered system.

The students are in their formative stage and many of them are from rural areas staying in hostels and rented houses. Being away from home they need extra guidance and the College has risen to the occasion by according the students supervision and mentoring that they need.

4. The practice (in about 400 words):

Two of the Best Practices of the College are made manifest in the form of a) Triple-tiered Supervision and b) Regular Mentoring.

Right from the inception of the College in 1987, a triple-tiered supervision was set in motion. In this system all the three machinery involved are interrelated and interdependent and mutually responsible. Under this mechanism of supervision which is aimed at effective teaching-learning, at the start of every class, an office designated for the purpose goes to every class to find out if a teacher is present. Should a teacher fails to make it to class due to any reason, the matter is taken before the Management and a substitute is arranged. In this way no class is left unattended. The purpose of this practice is cultivation of personal responsibility and contribution to regular classes and smooth running of the College. At the second level, the students are supervised by the teachers in and outside the class. While learning-based discipline is imposed within the classroom, the teachers continue to exert their gentle yet persistent presence by helping the students to adhere to the rules and regulations of the College. All the teachers, especially those in the Discipline and Anti Ragging Committee see to the day to day discipline of the College, such as use of mobile phones only within the permissible areas of the College campus. This triple-tiered supervision sees at its apex the regular supervision accorded by the Management. The Principal and the Vice-Principal patrol the classes assuring the students and even the staff of their presence. The whole College has come to look towards this supervision with a welcoming attitude. This caring supervision is augmented by mentoring that is conducted to students. Mentoring is seen to take place at various levels. There is the mentoring that is conducted officially both in groups and individually. In addition to this, students approach teachers of their choice as and when they feel the need of a listening ear. Teachers also resort to unsolicited mentoring whenever they feel that any student is in need of their particular help and advice. The periodic Morning Assemblies conducted by the College also serve in general to remind and direct the students towards the right path.

5. Evidence of Success

The practice of positive triple-tiered supervision of classes is seen to be successful. It has made everyone concerned understand the values of regularity and punctuality followed by spontaneous execution. This has helped in the smooth and effective teaching-learning process. The official introduction of the mentoring system has made the students aware of the College's interest in their over-all welfare. This has resulted in improvement of class attendance and over-all learning. Along with this, the unofficial mentoring accorded to students has helped teachers get to know their students more closely and help and understand them accordingly.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Sometimes students are absent during mentoring and moreover the teachers are not equipped with formal counseling skills. However, there is no problem regarding the practice of three-tiered supervision of teaching-learning.

MENTORING
Department of education.
August, 2019

The faculty members of Education Department met the Education Honors students of 1st, 3rd and 5th Semesters in order to guide, help and motivate them with their academic, curricular and personal problems. The students were asked to reveal their diverse problems which they face inside the classrooms related to the teaching learning process. It was found that most of the students were introvert and thus the faculty members met each and every student individually. Students were asked to perceive their weaknesses and comfort them with courage. They were guided to share their skills and experiences. The students were assured all kinds of help in order to navigate a course to their destination. They were given all kinds of opportunities to create themselves.

It was found that in every semester majority of the students were mostly average or mediocre and a few of them were even slow learners. Fast learners and excellent students were identified only in terms of their classroom performances. Based on the requirement of Mentoring Report, the Department has organized several remedial classes for the identified students. Besides each and every student is encouraged to approach their teachers for educational and personal guidance.

BEST PRACTICES IN MY INSTITUTION

Institutions may have many good practices that add value to the quality of education they offer. For presentation of each of those practices the following format may be used. Care may be taken to avoid general descriptions and focus may be on concrete practice.

1. Title of the practice: MENTORING
2. The context that required the initiation of the practice

Don Bosco College, Tura is one of the premier institutions in Garo Hills. We can even say that it is one of the best colleges in Meghalaya. So many students irrespective of caste, sex, religion, financial background, urban, rural come to take admission to this college. It has students studying in 15 departments of the three streams of Arts, Science and Commerce with a total strength of about 1800 students. The affiliating university, NEHU, in its regulations on conduct of examinations of the three year degree courses has laid the qualification of candidates for examinations a minimum of 75% attendance of the candidate in the lecture/tutorials and practical classes. The college has a wide variation in the student population in regard to educational and economic background and because of these factors, the IQAC of this college introduce the mentoring system and take it as a priority to entertain the hopes and aspirations of students from all over the State. Many of our students from rural areas lack proper academic background and financial back-up. Mentoring of students thus, is an essential feature to render equitable service to all our students having varied background. The importance and aims of student mentoring is to enhance teacher-student relationship, to enhance students' academic performance and attendance and discipline, to minimise student drop-out rates, to identify and understand the status of slow learners and encourage advanced learners and to render equitable service to students. This reinforces the IQAC to introduce a program called "MENTORING".

3. Objectives of the practice The College regularly monitors the attendance of the students to determine students consistency in attending classes, to reduce absenteeism, to identify potential reasons for absence of students, to boost students' productivity in teaching-learning process. The follow up of attendance is done through Mentoring program which helps to identify the individual students who encounter various problems in their academic life. This identification will help to strengthen and overcome their issues. It also helps in establishing good rapport between the teacher and the student and thus builds an interpersonal relationship between the teachers and students. Each department is assigned with the task of mentoring their Honours students. This programme is conducted at two levels; group and individual. All teachers conduct at least three cycles of group and individual mentoring every semester. All mentors keep a confidential data sheet about their students, "mentors assessment of students" which records a report of mentoring done by the teachers. These reports are periodically monitored and evaluated by IQAC members and the Mentoring Coordinator.

4. The Practice

Attendance data of all the students is compiled by the departments on a monthly basis. Cumulative percentages are calculated and displayed on the notice board at the beginning of each month. Students falling short of the required attendance percentage are notified to meet the principal. Show cause notices are sent to the parents of those students that do not reach the 30% attendance mark. The Mentoring Program provides a reliable support system from within the departments and for the student community in order to motivate them to excel in both academic and non-academic fields. This Mentoring help the students in need and the departmental teachers are ready to serve anytime and in any form. It also helps students to improve their skills, attitudes, and resources necessary to succeed, both in the college environment as well as to pursue comfortable, easy and satisfying lives. To show respect for Principals, teachers and elders are always insisted by mentors. Even students diversity is taken into account by the mentors. Each department is assigned with the task of mentoring their Honours students. This programme is conducted at two levels; group and individual. All teachers conduct at least three cycles of group and individual mentoring every semester. The session is compulsory for every B.A, B. Sc and B.Com students to attend without fail. The mentoring parameters are based on four aspects i.e. academic, attendance, discipline and motivation. A Mentoring Format with Guidelines is prepared by the IQAC and the Mentoring Coordinator to ensure uniformity. Mentors maintain the Mentoring Format which contains space for entering particulars and performance of students (internal tests, monthly attendance records, etc.) All mentors keep a confidential data sheet about their students, "mentors assessment of students" which records a report of mentoring done by the teachers. Hence through the process of mentoring, the students are motivated to become more regular for their classes and thus the target of making students achieve 75% attendance is fulfilled. The grievances of the mentees are taken up by the mentors and if necessary it is forwarded to the Principal for necessary remedial actions. The reports of the practice of the mentoring system are periodically monitored and evaluated by IQAC members and the Mentoring Coordinator so as to ensure quality and efficiency in practice.

5. Obstacles faced if any and strategies adopted to overcome them

Obstacle 1: A mentoring program conducted in the college within 45 minutes is not something that a teacher can just throw together in a short amount of time and expect to produce results.

Strategies: To make sure that the mentors have a plan in their minds to alleviate this initial anxiety. This plan should contain both a process that outlines how a mentor intent to proceed, and a methodology that confirms not only what mentors are doing but also why they are doing it. So the mentors must remember to plan.

Obstacle 2: What is a mentor? What is a mentee? What is mentoring overall? These types of questions should not be vague.

Strategies: To make sure that all the teachers are well versed with the operational definitions of the terms "Mentor", "Mentee", "Mentoring" etc.

6. Impact of the practice

Attendance forms a part of the Continuous Evaluation process and hence some marks are awarded to those students having a good performance in attendance. Attendance data has been used by the concerned teachers to help identify and mentor the students and thereby helping them to do better in their performance in the classroom as well as examinations. The Principal himself takes the responsibility to personally call the students with very low attendance and meet their parents. Mentoring College students by the faculty (mentor) has a positive impact on students' academic achievement, discipline, attendance and motivation. Mentoring relationships frequently develop between mentors and mentees. In this process, the stories that students share about their life issues alleviates their problems as the mentors offer them with various suggestions and remedies to solve their issues which is hindering their academic success. The system has been useful in identifying slow learners and advanced learners.

PRINCIPAL

7. Resources required

The primary attendance is taken in the classes using the register/file. The data are entered into a computer by the respective departments in a MS Excel attendance data format which is submitted to the office, who then computes the percentages of the students' attendance. This data is printed and displayed on the notice board in the 1st week of each month. Free resources for training mentors for mentoring programs should be provided in the college. Any expert mentoring personnel with established mentoring programs can also assist with training activities for the mentors in the institution.

REPORT ON MENTORING OF BOTANY DEPARTMENT

A short session of mentoring class was conducted for the Botany Honours students of Second Semester, Fourth Semester and Sixth Semester separately on the 26th, 27th and 28th February 2019 respectively. A motivational interactive session regarding their attendance, academic performance and discipline was the main topic of discussion at the session. The monthly attendance of the students was consulted and the students who were found to be irregular were told to be regular in the future. They were reminded of the 75% compulsory attendance rules of the University to sit for the final examination. To check their academic performance from time to time the students were requested to bring their mark sheet of the preceding examinations and submit to the department. The importance of time management in the examination was also discussed at length. The weaker students were encouraged to perform better and put more time in their studies. The students were also encouraged to buy their own textbooks and to make use of the library books from the college. The overall discipline of the students were also discussed and they were told the importance of carrying the college ID at all times inside the campus.

MENTORING FEBRUARY 2019

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

DON BOSCO COLLEGE, TURA

Mentoring and Counselling is a regular feature of departmental activity. Each faculty of the department takes it seriously and the effect is reflected in the result progression of the current semester students.

Group mentoring of 2ND, 4TH and 6TH Semester students were done on 26TH and 27TH February, 2019. Most of the students were present.

1. The students were asked to follow proper dress code.
2. They were told to respect the Fathers, teachers, staff and the other students also.
3. The students were advised to study seriously, solve question papers, make proper planning for their studies etc. They were also advised to follow a regular routine of studies to achieve the best result and go to the library during off periods.
4. The students were told that the job market is very tough where applicants are many but jobs are less. Unless they study very seriously, it will not be easy to get a job.
5. They professors also highlighted the scope of higher studies. If they want to study M.A in N.E.H.U, Shillong, they have to write an entrance test where many conceptual questions have to be answered. Other than N.E.H.U, they can pursue M.A from other universities also. They can do B.Ed training or M.C.A or M.B.A after graduation also.
6. The students were also advised to take the help of the college counsellor if necessary.

The students were requested to consult the faculty whenever they will have some problems and need to find solutions.

The faculty is always ready to help the students in whatever way possible.

Head, Department of Economics.
